2 ECLAT AFTER G7-MEETING

US President Trump left the G7 summit early, although no breakthrough in the trade dispute was in sight. It turned out during the talks that the US President is no longer interested in multilateralism. He is only concerned with his motto «America first». He withdrew his agreement to the joint declaration after the G7 summit a few hours later by decree. It did not help the other countries in any way, not even with regard to customs duties. The countries concerned are now taking the US to the WTO for the new protective tariffs.
